BEFORE YOU GO

What to Pack

Winter Layers
Jacket, gloves, hat, scarf, snow boots. Base layers and fleece — it's dry cold at altitude.

Ski Gear (optional)
Bring your own or rent in Breck. Renting saves luggage space — packages start ~$50/day.

Sunglasses & Sunscreen
High altitude = intense UV. The sun reflects off the snow. You will burn without protection.

Swimsuit
For the hot tub — you'll be in it every night. Trust us.

Games & Entertainment
Board games, card games, puzzles for cabin nights. The game room has some, but bring favorites.

White Elephant Gift
Set a $20–25 limit. We'll do the exchange Saturday night at the cabin.

Sleds
For Carter Park. Buy cheap ones at Walmart in Frisco on the way in, or bring from home.

Water Bottle
Hydration is critical at altitude. Bring a reusable bottle and drink constantly.

ALTITUDE WARNING — READ THIS

Breckenridge sits at 9,600 feet. That's almost 2 miles above sea level. You may feel lightheaded, short of breath, or get headaches — especially the first day. The fix: drink tons of water, take it easy day 1, avoid heavy alcohol the first night, and give your body time to adjust. It gets much better by day 2.
